

Lisa Yui & "A Concerto of One"

In addition to being a well respected concert pianist and teacher, Lisa Yui is an expert in combining the internet and digital technology with the traditional acoustic piano. Lisa has worked closely with the staff at Yamaha Artist Services in New York on several musical projects. Her innovative work has been featured in the prestigious Juilliard Journal, and is the focus of a three minute documentary about her amazing use of this technology.

The video shows her collaborating with other teachers from all over the world using the Yamaha Disklavier, the Internet-enabled acoustic grand piano that can connect directly to other Disklaviers.

The technology enables a performance to be played in one location and heard in another with almost no discernible difference. Lisa, who resides in New York, demonstrates it's functionality in the film by a remote lesson with a student in Rhode Island. The video is part of a competition, so in addition to watching this fascinating movie, please send the address to all your friends so Lisa—and the Disklavier—will win.

Click Here to see the video (And to vote for it!):

<http://www.digitalcribs.net/DisplayVideo.aspx?id=971429324>

Lisa Yui

Canadian pianist Dr. Lisa Yui was a child prodigy who has performed concertos with symphony orchestras since age 7, and has won numerous international competitions.

In addition to performing, Lisa is an active teacher and teaches at many top conservatories including the Manhattan School of Music and the Juilliard School.

Lisa is a Yamaha Artist.

<http://lisayui.com/>